

EDITOR'S CHOICE

Goodman Morris

Goodman Morris will launch its new collection, called Planet Sweet, at IJJL. Drawing on its trademark bold, tactile heavyweight designs, and taking inspiration from the curves and bouettes of the solar system, Planet Sweet combines smooth textures with organic bold lines. This collection is all about wearable statement pieces with commercial value: bold sphere watchstone rings, long pendants centered with precious gemstones mounted within metal planets cascade down the décolletage, and earrings featuring mounted gemstone planets. Each piece is made by hand. The brand has proved a hit with the summer press, grabbing coveted spots in fashion titles. Goodman Morris is based in Brighton's famous Lanes, where it sells direct to consumers at its shop. It is also stocked by a selection of independent jewellery shops in the UK. Stand L930

Hean Studio

HEANSTUDIO

Hean Studio is a specialist in producing platinum castings for jewellery, objets d'art and non-jewellery hi-tech applications. It also produces castings in all carats of gold and silver.

Stand E475

HERSEYSILVERSMITHS

Hersey Silversmiths will be showing a new range of solid silver bangles, cuffs and bracelets. With an emphasis on handmade, heavy-weight quality, the beaten cuffs and hinged bangles are made in London with London hallmarks. The company will be running a competition on its stand during the IJJL show to win a wide hammered cuff worth £150.

Stand E475

ISACHSENSTUDIO

Isachsen Studio is based in Oslo, Norway, and works with gemstones. The brand produces fresh, futuristic, glamorous trend-led pieces, as well as more traditional designs.

Stand E475

James Newman has built a successful business that is renowned for innovative design, attention to detail and a superior craftsmanship

James Newman Jewellery

ITCHYDO

Itchydo's collection of beads and stones is sourced from all over the world. Its IJJL exhibition stand will include its newest finds of snakeskin, ceramic and felt beads in vibrant colours. These unusual materials are combined with semi-precious stones, dyed jade, wood, shell, seeds, glass, crystal and horn, as well as a range of silver beads and findings to create an organic look.

Stand E475

JACKS DESIGN

Jacks Design, known for sensual minimalism in its jewellery designs, will be showcasing its most recent Ellipse collection at IJJL this year. The styles are simple yet playful, consisting of bold 18ct gold oval pieces in a variety of styles. The Ellipse rings are available in three versions: completely pavé-set with three gold drops, satin-finish gold with three marquise-cut diamonds or plain 18ct gold with no diamonds. The collection also features matching diamond necklaces and earrings.

Stand E475

Hersey Silversmiths

Isachsen Studio

Jacks Design

EDITOR'S CHOICE James Newman Jewellery

The latest line from James Newman is the Bow collection. In a move towards a focus on precious jewellery and the bridal market, the rings are made in platinum and 22ct gold, many set with diamonds. Men's and women's rings are available.

James Newman is one of the UK's leading contemporary designer-makers with his collections exhibited throughout the UK in design-led shops and galleries.

Newman has built a successful business that is renowned for innovative design, attention to detail and superior craftsmanship. He also offers a commissioning service, working with his clients from design to realisation and ensuring that every detail is perfect.

His entire current collection can now be viewed in his gallery and adjoining workshop, which is located in the heart of Birmingham's Jewellery Quarter.

Such is his success that James has recently been commissioned by a leading Milan fashion house to design and produce a range of jewellery.

Stand L955

New rings from James Newman